

ATTENTION

This document is provided for historical purposes only.

Documents contained in the Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife Document & Publication Archive may contain dated and/or incorrect information. The WDFW Document & Publication Archive is provided as a service to those interested in the history of fish and wildlife management in Washington State.

WATERFOWL HUNTING

in the
Nisqually Delta Area

WHERE CAN I HUNT?

- * The Washington Department of Game's Nisqually Wildlife Area is open to waterfowl hunting. This is a designated non-toxic shot zone.

WHICH AREAS ARE CLOSED TO HUNTING?

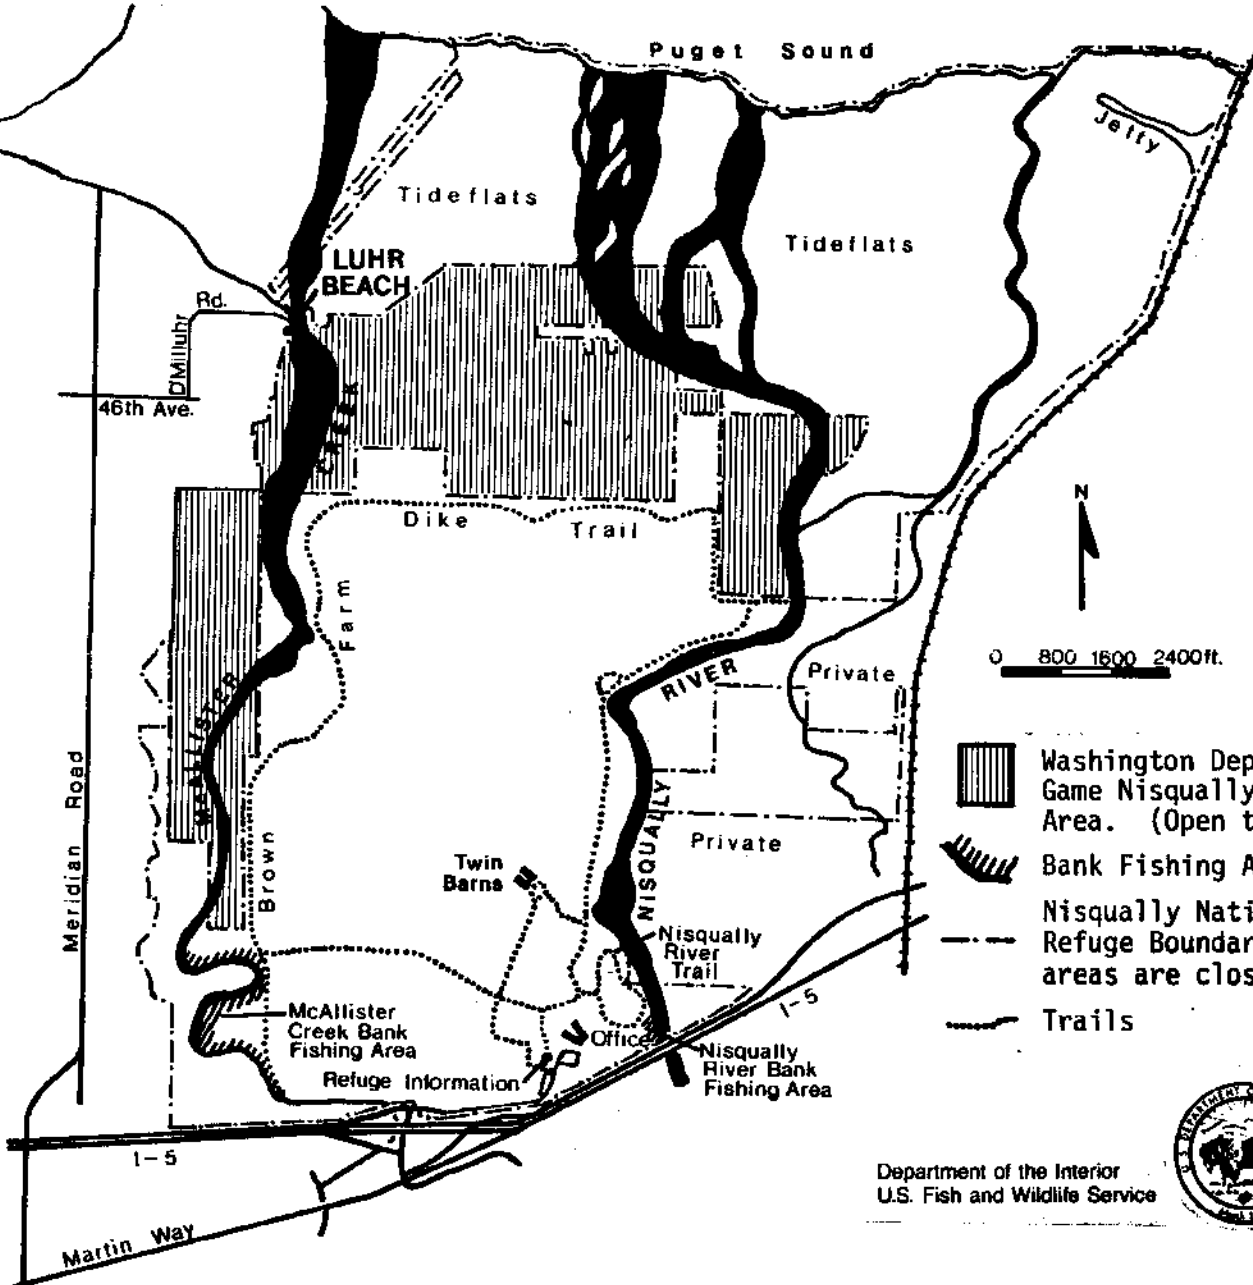

- * Posted areas of Nisqually National Wildlife Refuge are closed to hunting. This includes the Brown Farm Dike, all areas within the Dike, the McAllister Creek Bank Fishing Area, and areas east of the Nisqually River.
- * Hunters may not enter the closed areas with firearms or dogs, and may not retrieve dead or crippled birds falling into these areas.

HOW DO I REACH THE HUNTING AREA?

- * Access is by boat. Luhr Beach is the nearest public boat launch.
- * Hunters may NOT gain access through posted areas of the Refuge, including the Brown Farm Dike.

CAN I STILL VISIT THE REFUGE DURING HUNTING SEASON?

- * Yes. Nisqually National Wildlife Refuge is open to the public during daylight hours throughout the year. Just don't bring your gun or dog.
- * During the hunting season parts of the Brown Farm Dike Trail will be closed to the public, including non-hunters as well as hunters. This is done to keep visitors at a safe distance away from hunting areas and to give the waterfowl an undisturbed area to rest and feed.
- * Many other trails will still be open, including the Nisqually River Trail, the trail to the Twin Barns, and parts of the Brown Farm Dike Trail along the Nisqually River and to the McAllister Creek Bank Fishing Area.

Department of the Interior
U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service

